Prayer of Solidarity for Venezuela and Colombia

God, Father and Mother of life, hope, communion, and mercy, we come into Your presence with hearts deeply moved for our brothers and sisters in Venezuela and Colombia, who have been affected by the earthquakes that have shaken their lands, their homes, and their communities.

Amidst the shaking of the earth, remind us that no life is alone, that no pain is foreign to us, and that, as communities of faith, we are called to bear one another's burdens. We pray for those who have lost their homes, their possessions, and their places of gathering, and especially for those who have lost loved ones. Embrace with Your tenderness those who are weeping today, those who are afraid, and those living with the uncertainty of what tomorrow may bring.

Jesus Christ, who drew near and dwelt among us, make Yourself present in the midst of those who suffer. Sustain families and strengthen those working in rescue and relief efforts. Walk alongside those providing medical and social care. And grant wisdom and sensitivity to those in public office, that they may respond with justice, swiftness, and solidarity.

Spirit of Life, receive our tears, hear our prayer, and turn our faith into commitment. May Your Holy Spirit move us to step outside ourselves to meet those who suffer. May He teach us to walk together, to share our resources, and to recognize that we are part of one humanity.

As the Evangelical Church of Disciples of Christ in Argentina, we are deeply moved and stand in solidarity regarding all this pain and loss, for we believe that faith cannot remain indifferent to human suffering. Our faith reminds us that we gather around the Lord's Table—an open table where no one is excluded and where we learn that shared bread transforms into communion, solidarity, and hope.

We call to mind Your Table, which extends to wherever someone shares bread with the hungry, wherever one hand holds another, wherever one community rebuilds alongside another, wherever pain is heard, and wherever dignity and hope are restored. In this time, we remember our call to live: "In essentials, unity; in non-essentials, liberty; and in all things, love."

In these times, help us also to understand that, as believers, we share in the universal priesthood: each person can be an instrument of your grace, your comfort, and your care. May pastors, communities, organizations, churches, and people of good will may we walk together, transcending borders and differences, building networks of solidarity and cooperation.

Amidst a land that trembles, teach us to be communities that stand firm in love. May Venezuela and Colombia find outstretched hands, communities of solidarity, and hearts ready to walk alongside them. May reconstruction begin where there is destruction. May trust be born where there is fear. May community emerge where there is loneliness. May compassion be revealed where there is pain. And where hope seems to be fading, may the light be kindled once more.

From our Disciples of Christ church in Argentina, we spiritually extend our table toward Venezuela and Colombia. We join in your sorrows, your quests, your hopes, and your efforts at rebuilding.

For around the Table, we learn that no one is saved alone, no one walks alone, and no one should suffer alone. May Christ, the Bread of Life, be nourishment for the weary. May Christ, the Good Shepherd, be comfort for the fearful. And may Christ, the Lord of hope, make us instruments of a solidarity that transcends borders.

In the name of Jesus Christ, who gathers us around the same Table and sends us to serve the world. Amen.
